Leaders become great not because of their power, but because of their ability to empower others. I am beyond honored to attend LeMoyne-Owen College as an Accelerated Studies for Adults and Professionals (ASAP) student. While attending LOC, one can feel the spiritual connection amongst the trailblazers who have paved the way. LOC transitions students into leaders and scholars and is listed amongst the Top 10 of the nations 1st established Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCU) and the only HBCU in Memphis, TN. Here at LOC, we take pride in celebrating black excellence. I am delighted to serve as the 2018-2019 elected President of the Business Student Association, and a proud member of Beta Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc. While attending LOC, I have had the privilege to serve my peers and my community. I’m a Queen from South Memphis ready to take on the world. Thank You LeMoyne-Owen College. My name is Danielle Huggins and I’m a Proud Magician.

Eric Henderson,
“The Magician”
LeMoyne-Owen College, Junior

College is an invaluable experience that no one in America should miss out on and every single person on the planet should strive to have. It wasn’t until I began my matriculation at LeMoyne-Owen College, fifth oldest historical black college in America, that I realized what an incredibly important part of my life journey was missing. And one just can’t know that until one is there. Additionally, everyone should have this altogether brain/life-expanding and important experience in a place where they absolutely feel culturally comfortable, connected and confident. Therefore, I am so grateful and thank God that historical black colleges and universities exist. Although changing times have made the original premise for HBCUs obsolete, there is still, and for all time will be, a powerful and profound need for America’s Historical Black Colleges and Universities. My name is Eric Henderson and I’m a Magic Man on mission, to be Historic, to stay Black, and build a Nation-Within-A-Nation, yeah, I’m at that.
Accreditation Council for Business Schools and Programs
Update!!!

With deadlines looming, the Division of Business and Economic Development faculty members are reaching completion of its bid for ACBSP program accreditation which is in addition to its current institutional accreditation through Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS). Spearheaded by Dr. Katherine Causey, the ACBSP candidacy requirements target completion date is December 2018.

There are seven standards by which business programs are evaluated before achieving accreditation, which include:

1. Leadership
2. Strategic Planning
3. Student and Stakeholder Focus
4. Student Learning Assessment
5. Faculty Focus
6. Curriculum
7. Business Unit Performance

The Difference Between Program vs. Institutional Accreditation

ACBSP accredits business programs. ACBSP does not accredit the institution, only the business programs offered at the institution. Most businesses and universities reviewing transcripts and accepting degrees base their decisions on institutional accreditation. Program accreditation from ACBSP without institutional accreditation may not be considered sufficient when accepting degrees or credits for transfer.

For institutions located within the United States, regional accreditation of the institution is required for membership and accreditation eligibility. Not all countries have the equivalent of regional accreditation and the government may provide the authority to grant degrees. When considering business programs, students are encouraged to contact institutions they may wish to attend in the future as well as the human resource department of specific employers. Degree acceptance policies will vary by institution and employer.
